The Girls of Today.

That the American girl is making rapid strides in the direction of a higher degree of physical perfection is shown by the work going on in the gymnasia of schools and colleges devoted to her education and in the outside clubs organized for athletic purposes. Every form of athletic culture is now enthusiastically practiced by young women. They are riding with the hounds, they are on the tennis courts, they are fencing and bowling, they are riding horse-back and bicycles, they are rowing boats and sailing yachts, and they are the admiring patrons of dog kennels and horse shows. They have not invaded the prize ring because they are not brutes. Very few of them have organized with ball clubs or football teams, for there is a point where womanly dignity must stop, though one of the leading agitators for female physical culture in England is a zealous advocate of football as a lady-like accomplishment.

In all this there is great hope for the new woman. The girls of today are likely to become the new women of the new century. If they expect to hold their own on terms of anything like equality with men a high degree of physical health and strength will be one of their chief requisites. But whether they do or not physical culture will not be a dry-back. Clear heads, sound lungs, strong limbs and forms after the Venus de Milo order will add to their attractiveness as well as to their happiness. As it is probable populating the earth never will go out of fashion, it will be a gain all round if the coming generations are not handicapped in the race by the physical misfortune of heredity.—Chicago Tribune

She Makes It Pay.

A young woman in San Francisco, or rather California, for the state is her field of operations, is making a good living and is having a great deal of fun as a traveling photographer. She embarked in the life because she was tired of the city, and she had so little knowledge pertaining to her occupation that when she attempted her first picture—that of two young men who wished to preserve themselves to posterity on a load of hay—she didn't know enough about her camera to get the plate exposed, but she soon conquered all these trifles and has made a reputation for good pictures, which insures her a cordial welcome whenever she returns to a field previously visited. She travels in a buggy, starting out in the early spring, and returning when she feels like it.

She is fearless and needs her cool courage occasionally when she strikes a lonely stretch of country. An all day's travel sometimes brings her to a place where she can get neither bed nor board. Then, as night approaches, she puts on a man's hat, kept for such occasions, buttons up a long black alpaca ulster to increase the masculine appearance, sees that her revolver is in good working order and rides on. The sum of $2,500 in the bank, with the memory of many pleasant adventures, is the result of three years of this nomadic picture taking.—San Francisco Letter

Dr. Parkhurst's Views on Woman.

The greatest thing a woman can do is to do the thing that she was specifically endowed and ordained to do, and that is to be a children and train them for the uses and service of the world they are born into, and only such women as are morally or intellectually incompetent to appreciate the full denotation of this or who have greater ambition for a aggressiveness or conspicuousness than they have for fulfilling their mission, will be hindered to resent this statement of the case. An indignity, writes the Rev. Charles H. Parkhurst, D.D., in Ladies' Home Journal.

I have yet to be convinced that any very considerable number of these are disposed to resist that nature's intention for them, but the actuating impulse of those who do is doubtless passion for some sort of celebrity and an impatience at the seclusion and the restraints which femininity, so construed, imposes upon the. They are not content to be known only in their children, and that is one great reason why their children are so little known. If Jochebed had hid her head full of theories about an enlarged sphere for women and had gone about Egypt stumping for female enfranchisement, the little hero of the burlesques would probably have shared the fate of the other male children of the period and the lawgiver of Israel never have been heard of.

Helen Morris Lewis.

Miss Helen Morris Lewis, president of the North Carolina E. R. A., was writing a note a few days ago in the office of the Edgefield (S.C.) Chronicle, when Lieutenant Governor Timmerman dropped in. Upon being introduced to Miss Lewis, he told her that he, too, was a woman suffragist. The editor of the Chronicle says jocosely: "At this we dropped heavily into our chair. Our jaws fell apart, and our eyes popped entirely out of our head and rolled about pell-mell on the floor. Miss Lewis' eyes did not pop out—that is, not entirely—but they danced and gleamed and sparkled like all the Pleiades on frolic. It was a pretty scene. Lieutenant Governor Timmerman is a woman suffragist! Miss Lewis has scored one—a big one—in Edgefield."

NEVADA STATE JOURNAL. THURSDAY, APRIL 18, 1895. THE GOLD STANDARD AND PROSPERITY.

From the foundation of the Government up to 1833 the mint of the United States coined gold and silver for the people. Any citizen, irrespective of age, sex or color, could take gold or silver bullion to the mint and have it coined into standard money of the United States. This money was a legal tender for all debts, public and private. Under these regulations the country prospered beyond all precedent. In 1833 the Congress of the United States surreptitiously demonetized silver by limiting its legal tender power to five dollars and prohibiting the coinage of silver for the public. This was followed by a commercial and financial panic which seemed unaccountable until it was ascertained that silver had been demonetized. Railroads and banks refused to receive silver coins of the United States for any obligation in excess of five dollars. The gold combination was not then as powerful as it is now, and the House of Representatives, elected in 1877, passed a bill to restore silver to its old standard. The Senate refused to follow the lead of the House and a compromise was effected by the passage of the Standard Dollar Act, which provided for the monthly coinage of not less than 2,000,000 nor more than 4,000,000 standard dollars at the option of the Secretary of the Treasury. John Sherman of Ohio, then Secretary of the Treasury, predicted dire disaster to the country if the bill became a law, and a timid President vetoed the bill. The people demanded the passage of some measure which would relieve the financial stringency, and Congress passed the bill over the President's veto. Notwithstanding the Treasury Department restricted the coinage of standard dollars to the minimum allowed by the Act, and the money market then became a general business revival for a few years. With the increase of population, however, and the consequent increasing demand for money another panic seemed imminent. The people were again loud in their demands for free coinage, and to prevent the passage of a bill for that purpose the Sherman Bullion Purchase Act became a law in 1890. That Act authorized the purchase of 4,500,000 ounces of fine silver monthly and repealed the compulsory coinage clause of the Standard Dollar Act, and left it optional with the Secretary of the Treasury whether any more silver dollars should be coined or whether the obligations of the Government should be paid in gold or silver dollars. Immediately after the passage of the Act silver bullion advanced to $1.20 per ounce, a wave of prosperity swept over the country and everything indicated a revival of business. Wheat and other products of the soil advanced with silver and farmers as well as miners were rejoicing. The advance of silver was of short duration. The gold ring was powerful. London purchasers depressed the silver market, the Treasury Department of the United States limited the coinage of silver dollars to less than two millions a month, and when the free gold in the Treasury was exhausted the reserve gold was used to redeem Treasury notes and other Government obligations, and the panic of 1893 followed. Every school child knows the rest. Banks closed their doors, old established commercial houses went down in the crash, prices of commodities, such as wheat and cotton, sank below the cost of production, industrial armies were organized in every city, enterprise was paralyzed and a period of depression unparalleled in the history of the country ensued. The financial legislation of the last twenty-two years proves conclusively the blighting, withering effect of the single standard on the country. The demonetization of silver in 1873 was followed by business depression and the partial remonetization of silver in 1878 restored prosperity. The Act of 1890 had a beneficial effect on business until the Treasury Department, presumably in the interest of the Gold Trust, took the option which the law allowed it of paying all claims in gold only. The repeal of that Act and the closing of the mint against silver closed every silver mine in the State, except the Comstock and that produces gold and silver, and sent the prices of the products of the soil down to bed rock. In the face of such knowledge it is surprising that anybody, especially residents of the State of Nevada, with sense enough to keep their fingers out of the fire, should follow the advice of place-hunting politicians and vote for men or for parties that are not unequivocally in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the historical ratio.

Republican, says Mr. Cleveland's letter is admirable. Notwithstanding the abuse heaped upon him by his party followers, he flies the banner of honest currency at the mast head of the Administration and tramples upon the flag of free coinage and repudiation. The Omaha Bee, Republican, says the President's letter ought to have a good effect. It is in the right tone and is sensible and strong. Do the Republicans of Nevada seriously believe that the party whose principal mouth pieces throughout the country about so lustily for Cleveland's manifesto against silver will put a free coinage plank in its platform? If they do they are greater fools than the notorious Thompsons, who, when a river got a drink at a watering trough. It is plainly evident that President Cleveland and the Republicans are in full accord on what all concede is the principal political issue of the day.

THE MURDERED MISS WILLIAMS.
The Inquiry Into the Cause of Her Death.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—Coroner Hawkins resumed his inquiry into the death of Miss Williams this morning at an hour earlier than yesterday; but for an hour before the doors were opened the crowd commenced to gather and a detail of policemen had all they could do to keep the curious throng quiet. Considerable interest was manifested by those present in the proceedings, as it is generally expected that some sensational testimony will be introduced by women witnesses, and other links added to the chain of evidence against Durant.

Judge Thompson, the accused man's attorney, arrived on time, but his client failed to put in appearance. It was soon learned that the prisoner did not want to attend unless his presence was requested by Coroner Hawkins. That gentleman, in the event Durant's presence was necessary, asked the Chief of Police to have him sent to the Coroner's office.

No disturbance whatever was created by the arrival of the prisoner, who looked a trifle worn, but carried himself well. A slight smile was sometimes lurking around his mouth, but that was all.

Dr. Gibson was late, but appeared after a short delay, and was the first witness called. He testified that he had never been in the belfry of the church until the 15th instant, and that he had only seen Miss Williams three times to his certain knowledge. Had never been very intimate with Durant. Did not identify the body at first sight. Had never slept in the church and did not know if Durant had or not. Identified the broken pieces of a knife as those found near the body, and also a stick used to tamp the cloth into Miss Williams's mouth.

Mrs. Voy, at whose house Miss Williams stopped on the afternoon of the murder, testified that she had never heard of Durant, and knew Miss Williams by no other name. Had given the dead girl a night key. Identified the clothes shown by the Coroner as those worn by Miss Williams. Mrs. Voy gave corroborative evidence and added that Miss Williams had told her that she intended to resign from the Christian Endeavor Society as she could not afford the expense. Also identified the clothing.

Elmer A. Wolf testified that he last saw Durant on Friday night about 12 o'clock, both being of a party that saw a young lady home from a social dance at Dr. Vogel's. Thinks he saw him a few minutes after standing on the corner on Twenty-fourth street, but is not sure. Said that Durant arrived at Vogel's house about half-past 9, but he did not come directly into the parlor.

Dr. Vogel, at whose house the social was held, testified that he knew all the parties concerned. Durant's hair looked disheveled. Durant asked to be shown a place where he could wash and comb his hair. Witness denies ever having said that he said that his forehead was wet with perspiration. He said Durant had explained his tardiness by saying that he had been at the armory.

A statement was read to witness in which he is quoted as having said that a young lady had told his cousin, Miss Lucille Turner, that Durant had once suggested that she allow him to make a medical examination of her, he telling her that he knew of a good place in the church where it could be done without anyone being the wiser. The young lady resented the proposition and after that would have nothing to do with Durant. Witness said the statement was practically correct and that he had heard his cousin say that she did not like Durant. He said he knew Miss Williams well. She never spoke of Durant.

A number of other witnesses were examined in regard to the identification of certain articles, and other minor matters.

Durant objected to attending the inquest this morning. He said he had been advised by his attorneys that the police had no right to force him to attend, but when the police insisted he went without resistance.

Chief Crowley is much worried over this, and is afraid Durant's attorneys will take advantage of this point when the case comes to trial.

The Coroner, however, has been advised by the District Attorney and insists that Durant shall attend.

Durant slept well last night and enjoyed a hearty breakfast. He reads the morning papers with interest and spends most of his time reading or talking to visitors. He resents being stared at.

Sulphate of iron (copperas) and chloride of lime, two of the best disinfectants, and but ten cents a pound, and a plentiful use of either in sinks, open drains and water-closets during the Summer and Autumn may prevent that dreaded disease, typhoid fever, as well as other diseases.

W. Saunders makes an announcement in another column to-day. He has fitted his undertaking parlors up in an elegant manner, peculiarly suited to the business, and is prepared to attend to every detail. Parties desiring burial lots will do well to see him before arranging with other parties.

Counterfeiters Captured.
United States Marshal Grady of Carson left Portland Monday evening for Sacramento, having in custody two men who were wanted at Carson for having passed bogus money. The Oregon officer will be met at Sacramento by United States Marshal Humphreys of this State, who will take charge of the prisoners and escort them to Carson. The names of the men under arrest are H. S. Richards and Frank Ross. They were captured at the Cascades, Oregon, five months ago. They had hurriedly left the State, when a portion of the gang to which they belonged was captured. The Marshal will probably arrive in Reno this morning with the men and proceed to the Capital. Another one of the gang is already in custody at Carson and gives the name of Armstrong to the authorities.

SENATOR STEWART propounds some knotty questions to the President. It is not probable that the Autocrat of the gold trust will attempt to answer them, as he is not a fool and knows that he can't do it. It will be in order for the gold press to commence another onslaught on Senator Stewart with the hope that it may weaken his argument.

"For Years,"
Says LARIE E. STOKWELL, of Chesterfield, N. H., "I was afflicted with an extremely severe pain in the lower part of the chest. The feeling was as if a ton weight was upon my chest, and it was on a spot the size of my hand. During the attacks, the perspiration would stand in drops on my face, and it was agony for me to make sufficient effort even to whisper. They came suddenly, at any hour of the day or night, lasting from thirty minutes to half a day, leaving as suddenly; but, for several days after, I was quite prostrated and sore. Sometimes the attacks were almost daily, then less frequent. After about four years of this suffering, I was taken down with bilious typhoid fever, and when I began to recover, I had the worst attack of my old trouble I ever experienced. At the first of the fever, my mother gave me Ayer's Pills, my doctor recommending them as being better than anything he could prepare. I continued taking these Pills, and so great was the benefit derived that during nearly thirty years I have had but one attack of my former trouble, which yielded readily to the same remedy."

STEWART TO CLEVELAND.

The Senator Presents his Compliments and Propounds Some Hard Questions to the President.

Senator Stewart has sent the following to the President:

"Your letter to Chicago business men is timely. The country looks to you, as the great champion of the present financial condition of the country. The policy for which you have labored so long and persistently has been established, and the money of the United States reduced to the shrinking volume of gold. The truth of the proposition cannot be denied. If there is any argument in favor of the money policy which you have adopted and forced upon the country it should be presented at once. You have urged upon the country in all your public utterances for the last ten years the necessity of 'sound money'. You have excited the curiosity of the people by your frequent use of such phrases as 'sound money' and 'safe currency', but you have never condescended to satisfy that curiosity by stating what these terms mean. What is 'sound money' or 'safe currency'? The people would like a definite answer, as they do not understand what you mean."

Senator Stewart continues: "Your recent sale of $22,000,000 of bonds, to Rothschild's syndicate for $9,000,000 less than their market value to obtain gold to maintain gold monometallism is some evidence of your familiarity with the 'forces of safe currency'."

RATHER GRAVE CHARGES.

Your assertion, that the opposing forces are those of silver monometallism, shows that you do not understand the position of the bimetalists, or that you knowingly misrepresent that position. Assuming, as I must, that it is want of information on your part, without the least desire to deceive people, you will pardon me for informing you what the advocates of unrestricted coinage of both gold and silver contend. Why do you argue that a return to the coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality, as established by Jefferson and Hamilton and maintained by all patriotic Statesmen of every party previous to the clandestine demonetization of silver in 1873, would debase the currency and destroy the credit of the Government? Have you ever compared the prosperity of the country, under your illustrious predecessors, who maintained unrestricted coinage of both metals, with the misfortune and depression which afflict the country under your administration? Did it ever occur to you that Jefferson and Jackson might be right, and that you might be wrong? Did you ever consider the ultimate possibility of the radical change that Senator Sherman and your associates in co-operation with what you term the forces of safe currency have made?

"You have disregarded not only the teachings of the fathers of the Republic, but you have reversed the usages and customs of the civilized world which existed for thousands of years previous to 1873. You have destroyed one-half the world's metallic money, and enhanced the value of the other half fully 100 percent. You have compelled the debtor to surrender more than double the amount of property to liquidate his debts that the money he borrowed would have purchased at the time he incurred the obligation."

INCREASED THE VALUE OF GOLD.

"You have increased the value of gold by refusing the use of both metals as money, and created a constant decline of prices until you have ruined enterprise, deprived labor of employment, and produced universal distress. You now call upon the Democrats of Illinois to present a plain and simple argument which will satisfy the people that the financial policy which makes them miserable is 'sound money' and 'safe currency.' If you know any argument that will convince the people that it is right for them to suffer depression and hard times while all the wealth they produce is in money, it is your duty to present that argument without delay. Such an argument would be a new discovery and one never before used by an advocate of your 'sound money' forces. If you can show that a contraction of the volume of money of ultimate payment of gold alone has made times prosperous, nobody else can. It all depends upon your superior wisdom."

"The country is looking to you, and you alone, to explain why times are hard. Under your sound currency policy you have delayed the explanation too long. The country is getting impatient. It is encouraging that you appreciate the necessity for prompt action."

COMMENTS CLEVELAND'S BOLDNESS.

In closing his epistle to the President, the Nevada Silverite adds: "Whatever may happen, you are entitled to the gratitude of the American people for your bold and open advocacy of the combination of gold monometallism and the refusal of your Secretary of the Treasury to put the coinage of both gold and silver upon terms of exact equality. You are doing what no other President has had the courage to do since the time of 1873. None of your predecessors since that deplorable event has dared to advise a combination of gold monometallism against the constitutional right of the American people to have coined at their mints both gold and silver, and thereby to enjoy a sufficient supply of money of ultimate payment to do the business of the country, sustain enterprise and furnish employment for labor. Your confidence in your wisdom and ability is sublime, when under present conditions you are willing to challenge comparisons between your policy and that of the founders of the Democratic

LEAKY WIRES.

Detective Harris Will Demand an Investigation.

Yesterday had its sensation in the mint scandal but the detectives have kept it to themselves. During the last few days the secret service agents have discovered that by some mysterious manner the mint suspects were thoroughly posted on their movements and even their intentions. They made a quiet investigation and demonstrated to their entire satisfaction that there was a leak in the telegraphic service. The fact was so positive that Special Agent Harris made an Appeal reporter asked him the question:

"Is it true that you charge that there is a leak in the wires of the Western Union?"

"I can't see how we can lay it to any other line. It's the only line we are using."

"Where's the leak?"

"Somewhere between the Western Union office in the Bullion and Exchange Bank and Washington."

"Have you located the exact spot?"

"Yes."

"Where is it?"

"I don't care to state just now, but you may say that I will lay the matter before the Western Union Company in San Francisco and give them the result of my investigations in this city."

"Then it is in this city?"

"That is my opinion, sir."

"Is this your official or individual opinion?"

"Put it as you please. The wire leaks there is no doubt about it, and it leaks in Carson City. Most of our dispatches were sent in cipher, but some quite important ones were not, and these dispatches were known in this city before they were known in Washington. There will be a full investigation of this matter and the blame will be properly located."

"Is it in the main office or the V. & T. office?"

"The indications point to the V. & T. office."—Carson Appeal.

CARSON MINT GRANULATIONS.

Henry Speculations and Propositions—Shortage Further Reduced—Getting it Before the Court—Who Got Away with the Hotheaded—Costly Investigation—Mrs. Hartley's Case—Wedding Held.

[Correspondence of the JOURNAL.]

CARSON CITY, April 17, 1895.

Nothing of sensational interest in the Mint shortage problem has transpired to-day. Mrs. Heney has returned to Carson from Reno and is at home with her mother. Her visit to Reno was merely to file a power of attorney with the County Recorder. Heney has ranch mortgage interests in Washoe county, which she is now authorized to transfer or dispose of, same as his property here, saving the same from any possible seizure on account of his alleged Mint stealings.

The power of attorney being authorized by him at Los Angeles, Cal., on the 2nd of this month, does away with the story of skipping out from San Francisco, and being in Montana and elsewhere, about that time and since, trying to elude the vigilant detectives who were camping on his trail night and day. He is still said to be in San Francisco, or where the officers can wet their finger and lay it upon him when wanted here, which will be very shortly. It is also said that Heney skipped from Los Angeles to Mexico, and is now taking a trip to Honolulu for his health.

The case of Assistant Melter and Refiner Jones is set to come up before Judge Hawley of the U. S. District Court to-morrow. Jones is as smilingly confident as ever, and does not look troubled in the least. Mason, the General Mint Inspector, after two months figuring, definitely reports the total shortage to be $75,490.75. Jones says he is not guilty, and the boss figuring will be to find out who is. As to Heney, Jones says it will make no difference to him, whether he can be rounded up and brought into court or not.

Meanwhile the expenses go on with increasing interest, and the cost of the famous Mint investigation will exceed the rascally perplexing shortage, as no more is expected to be found, and the expenses are not through with by any means. The shortage had to be figured no farther back than five years ago when the Mint was closed and all the coin and bullion—over $4,000,000—taken away East. Over $7,000,000 can be taken away now. This examination of Jones should show the basis upon which Mason has figured out this shortage, which has not been made publicly known yet.

MRS. HARTLEY'S CASE

Came before the Supreme Court, on appeal asking for a new trial. Attorney General Beatty and W. E. F. Deal for the State, and Clarke and Dodge for defendant. General Clarke's argument occupied the entire day, but it is thought the other three attorneys will get through to-morrow.

A WEDDING ROOM.

There were two weddings at the Catholic Church this afternoon—Geo. Lammon of Virginia City to Miss Nellie Sweeney of Carson, and J. Dodge, District Attorney of Mono county, to Miss Annie Brady of Bridgeport. The church was crowded and as much interest taken as at a circus or a Caedonian picnic.

District Court.

A decision was rendered in the District Court yesterday in the case of Edward Willis vs. Nevada Bank. The defendant was granted a dismissal of the case and the plaintiff ordered to pay costs on the ground that no memorandum of the contract in writing had been made. The case will probably be appealed.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD.

To-night at Eight O'clock in the Reading Room, Thompson Block.

Hon. F. A. Falkenberg, Head Consul, Pacific Jurisdiction, Woodmen of the World, will deliver an address upon "Fraternalism" this evening. While he will state the objects of Woodcraft he will also entertain his audience with much general information concerning Fraternal Benefit Orders. All fraternal men are invited as well as friends who have not yet associated themselves with any of the great organizations. The address will be free, and at its close the advisability of organizing a Camp of the popular and rapidly growing Order will be determined.

A Cure Seldom Equalled in Medical History

All Sorts of Treatment Failed—Hood's Sarsaparilla Cured.

Mrs. Mary E. Freeby.

Long Beach, Cal.

Over all diseases caused by or arising from impure blood, Hood's Sarsaparilla seems to have almost magical control. Please read the following frank letter of Mr. Freeby, voluntarily endorsed by the Postmaster and Druggist of the town:

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"My wife spent her ankle ten years ago. It apparently got well, being a little larger than the other ankle. Three years ago last spring a sore broke out on her knee, then on her ankle, and a third one on her foot, which became and the doctor of this place could not do anything to benefit my wife's case. We moved to Los Angeles by the advice of the doctor and had other physicians. I then took my wife to the hospital, and the surgeons scraped all the flesh around the sores. They almost healed up, but soon after, two little specks came, one on each side of the first sore. The doctors said they would not amount to anything, but in a few days they turned out to be more ulcers, and in a short time they had eaten into the original sore and made a big wound. The surgeon decided an Operation Must Be Performed.

My wife would not consent to this so we rested matters for a few days. Happening to meet another physician who said he could cure her limb in four weeks we consented to have him treat the case. After he had doctored five months there were seven ulcers in place of one when he commenced. He finally said my wife would never get well. I was about discouraged, and I went home and threw away all the salves and medicines and decided to have her try a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Besides giving her this medicine we banded daged her foot in steeped leaves and roots and continued this treatment for five months. At the end of that time she had taken eleven bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, the sores were all healed and

She is Perfectly Well.

I tell everyone what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for my wife and advise all afflicted to try it. My wife is 62 years old and is in the best of health." JOSEPH C. FREEBY, Long Beach, California.

A Card to the Public!

The store formerly occupied by the firm of F. Levy & Bro. is now being remodeled and renovated, and will be re-opened at an early date by Sol Levy, as successor to the old firm. In view of this, it is earnestly requested that all parties owing the old firm will settle their accounts as speedily as possible, so that the affairs of the former concern can be closed up.

Mr. Sol Levy will conduct the new store on strictly Eastern principles, including prices. Spot cash will be the rule, thus giving patrons the best advantages of purchase and a choice line of goods in every department.

The date of opening will be announced in due time, and it will be an eventful one in the history of the dry and fancy goods business of Reno.
